Do Foxes Enjoy the Hunt?

P. H. Bryson raises a question in The American Field which is sure to bring out considerable discussion among fox hunters. He wants to know if foxes enjoy being run by dogs. He believes that they do.

"If you think the fox does not enjoy the run, you have only to look at a fox as it passes. His eyes are dilated with pleasure—no fear there—and brush vibrating defiantly in the face of its pursuers, and in command of his mental faculties, and using brain as well as heels."

"This same fox exercises cunning and craft to escape instead of dropping into a hole when it would be safe from the dog's fangs. Many a fox has lost its life rather than escape into a hole, seeming almost to regard the earth escape as disgraceful, to be resorted to in the direst straits only."

Bryson tells of a vixen which, with her whelps, ran a long way and then the youngsters, being tired, went into a hole while she continued the race for hours after, escaping into the same hole with her young in the end.

The Popular Secret Service Museum.

"The secret service museum in the treasury department continues to be a great attraction," remarked one of the officials of the secret service bureau, "through most of the articles exhibited there are very old. The bulk of them have been on exhibition for 15 or 20 years, and but few new things have been added of late. Still the rural visitors crowd in there daily and take great interest in looking over the old counterfeit plates and notes collected there. Even more interest is taken in the collection of photographs of oldtime counterfeiters, the most of whom have been dead for years. The museum, however, strikes the popular fancy, and is particularly satisfactory to the large number of persons, young and old, who read detective stories and are interested in the accounts of crimes which appear in the newspapers. It is about the only way that the average person can actually see the tools of trade of the criminal classes and especially of counterfeiters."—Washington Star

Feckular Baron Hirsch.

Extreme parsimony in small matters was allied with Baron Hirsch's magnificence. On the occasion of a great fire at Tokay, in Hungary, he sent his secretary to Vienna with 50,000 florins (more than $20,000) toward the fund for relieving the distress caused by the fire; but he begged the secretary not to take a florin at the railway station, but from a stand near by, thus saving 8 cents. The baron could not bear being overcharged for anything. He was so indignant at having to pay 3 florins for a pair of candles at a hotel that he actually took candles with him.

How a Fox Gets Rid of Fleas.

Reynard is a knowing animal. The fleas are much concerned by fleas, but when the infestation becomes too severe they know how to get rid of the insects. They gather from the bark of trees, which they carry to a stream that depends by degrees. Into they enter the water, still carrying the fleas in their mouths, and going backward, beginning from the end of their tails, they advance till the whole body, with the exception of the mouth, is entirely immersed. The fleas, during this proceeding, have a quick in and out motion to the dry parts, and finally to the moss, and the fox when he has, according to his calculation, allowed sufficient time for all the fleas to take their departure, quietly opens his mouth. The moss floats off down the stream with its burden of fleas, and when it is out of jumping reach the fox finds its way to the bank much relieved.—Exchange

Hirsch and the Aristocracy.

It is told of the late Baron Hirsch that he once expressed his contempt for the aristocracy in forcible terms. It was in his Paris residence, formerly the property of the Empress Eugenie. At one of his magnificent entertainments Hirsch stood at the top of the staircase, and looking down on the procession of princes, dukes and marquises who were struggling up the stairs to greet him, he turned to his son and said, "Twenty years hence all these people will be either our sons-in-law or our concubines."

His Fatal Fault.

"What do you want to haul me up for?" protested the cyclist who had been humping himself along the boulevard. "Why didn't you grab some of those chaps that were scorching past me? They were going at the rate of 30 miles an hour!"

"You were the only one I could catch," responded the perspiring policeman, gripping him tighter.—Chicago Tribune

Limitations.

"No," sighed the evil one, "we can't do a thing with actors. The minute we try to make it hot for them they get up a benefit performance, and, of course, you know that means a frost."

Even the supernatural, it seemed, had occasionally to meet up with limitations.—Detroit Tribune

BLAINE'S FINANCIAL VIEWS.

James G. Blaine was a statesman who had pronounced views on the financial and tariff questions. When shown a draft of the McKinley tariff act he said "it did not make a market for more barrel of flour or pork." Mr. Blaine was then Secretary of State. He was opposed to the McKinley bill, and to partially conciliate him the reciprocity clause was incorporated in that bill. His opinions were also pronounced on the financial question, and in a speech delivered in Congress February 7, 1878, he said:

On the much vexed and long mooted question of bimetallic or monometallic standard, my own views are sufficiently indicated in the remarks I have made. I believe the struggle now going on in this and other countries for a single gold standard would, if successful, produce a widespread disaster in and throughout the commercial world. The destruction of silver as money and establishing gold as the sole unit of value must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property except those investments which yield a fixed return in money. These would be enormously enhanced in value and would gain a disproportionate and unfair advantage over every other species of property. If, as the most reliable statistics affirm, there are nearly $7,000,000,000 of coin or bullion in the world, not very unequally divided between gold and silver, it is impossible to strike silver out of existence as money without results which will prove disastrous to millions and utterly disastrous to tens of thousands. I believe gold and silver coin to be the money of the constitution, indeed the money of the American people anterior to the constitution, which the great organic law recognized as quite independent of its own existence. No power was conferred on Congress to declare either metal should not be money. Congress has, therefore, in my judgment, no power to demonetize either any more than both. If, therefore, silver has been demonetized, I am in favor of demonetizing it. If its coinage has been prohibited, I am in favor of having it enlarged.

That was Republicanism in 1878. The man who expressed those sentiments was the idol of two-thirds of the Republic. In 1888 when the National Convention condemned the Democratic Administration for its efforts to demonetize silver, it was Republicanism in 1896 in California, Nevada and several other States to demand the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, but it is now later in the year 1896 Republicanism to oppose the free coinage of silver until foreign nations consent, just because Mark Hanna, McKinley's manager, says so.

Is not this enough to make Mr. Blaine, who believed in a distinctive American financial and tariff policy, to turn over in his grave and ask the cause of this degeneracy? What is the use of the constitutional clause empowering Congress "to coin money and regulate the value thereof" if foreign nations are to determine what we shall use for money and whether or not we shall work our mines and coin our bullion into money?

But Blaine is in his grave, and Hanna, with his barrel now occupies the place of the statesman, and Republicans, being firm believers in bung-holes infallibility, follow where Hanna with his barrel leads.

A GOLDBUG ARGUMENT REFUTED.

One of the stock arguments of the gold men is that if free coinage obtains, foreign nations will settle their obligations to us in silver, and will demand that we pay ours in gold. The Kansas State Journal, noticing this, says: "Suppose they do demand gold, it does not follow that they will get it. This country has no gold obligations outstanding. All our debts are payable in coin or in lawful money of the United States, not of Europe."

There is not, according to the most reliable reports obtainable, a Government obligation that is not payable in coin. Government bonds were originally payable in legal tender money of the United States. Senator Sherman of Ohio, in 1869, introduced a bill to strengthen the public credit. This bill made the debt payable in coin or the then standard value, which consisted of gold dollars containing 25 8-10 grains of standard gold, or of silver dollars containing 412 2/3 grains of standard silver, and the contracts printed on every bond issued by the United States. This contract, though in plain words, is construed by Cleveland and Sherman, and by the Republican party since Mr. Hanna became dictator, to mean gold, and gold exclusively, and they insist on issuing bonds for gold, when there is other available money in the Treasury, to pay the obligations of the United States. This policy, by hoarding greenbacks in the Treasury, shipping the gold to Europe, and not coining silver, is contracting the currency until it takes about twice as much labor or the products of labor to purchase a dollar as it did under the double standard. The result is a few are being enriched while millions are impoverished, and Mr. Hanna, with the aid of his barrel, expects the millions to vote to sanction this policy by electing his man McKinley.

POPULISTS AT SEA.

Bryan Declines Their Nomination With Thanks.

A TAIL BUT NO HEAD.

The Silverites Nominate Bryan and Sewall and Adjourn.

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—The middle-of-the-road Populists were demoralized at their defeat last evening, and the leaders of the Bryan forces to-day predict that they will be able to secure the endorsement of Sewall as well as Bryan. That Texas, Georgia, a part of North Carolina, a part of California and a part of the delegations from the other Southern States will bolt Bryan and Sewall and name another ticket seems a foregone conclusion. The leaders of the Silver Convention to-day decided that nothing could be done until their Conference Committee with the Populists reported.

The silverites have about decided to take no action until the Populist Convention adopts a platform and nominates candidates. Then if Bryan and Sewall are successful, the Silver Convention will endorse them and march in a body to the Populist Convention and ask to be taken into the fold.

Not more than half the delegates were in their seats this morning when Senator Allen, the permanent Chairman, called the Populists to order. After a prayer by Rev. Wilder Williams, the convention, by a ruling vote adopted resolutions of regret at the death of Mrs. Emory of Michigan, the reform worker and silver writer. Then Captain Lloyd and Mrs. Bennington, dressed as Columbia and Uncle Sam respectively, sang a campaign song. Jerry Simpson protested against wasting more time in such trivialities. John S. Dore of California created a sensation by declaring that the rules of the Omaha platform prohibiting Federal officers from participating in the Populist convention should be enforced against Senators Allen and Butler. No action was taken on Dore's protest.

A committee of one from each State, to confer with the Silver Convention Committee, was appointed to ascertain if the two conventions could find a common ground to stand upon. Texas refused to appoint a delegate on the Committee, Delegate Park shouting, "Texas never treats with an enemy." The Texas delegation then sent a banner into the gallery and an attempt was made to hang it over the speaker's stand. The banner represented Bryan with one foot on the Democratic and one on the Republican platform. The attempt was promptly suppressed.

The minority report of the Committee on Rules was read, recommending that the Vice President be nominated before the President.

This was a move of the middle-of-the-road men. McGrath of Illinois moved that the report be tabled. Several delegates clamored for a hearing.

Chairman Tweed Pomeroy of the Committee on Rules explained the conflict between the majority and minority reports.

Ignatius Donnelly protested against the proposition reported from the Committee on Rules allowing the candidates to select the National Chairman.

"When this convention adjourns," he said, "there will be little of the Populist party except the National Committee. While I may be willing to support Bryan if he is the choice of the convention, when the folly of the moment has passed away we may want to clothe what is left."

He wanted the National Committee to select its Chairman.

Judge Green of Nebraska said that Populists would emerge triumphant in November if they grasped the chance for silver by fusion. He said that he is here to save the life of the Populist party.

Abbott of Nebraska favors the majority report to nominate the President first and a Southerner for Vice President. [Great cheering.]

"Cyclone" Davis asks if the convention would substitute a Vice Presidential nominee for Sewall. This brought the middle-of-the-road delegates to their feet with tremendous cheering.

Davis continued: "Does this convention want this young Sampson (the Populist party) to be thrown at the feet of the Democratic party and be swallowed?" Cries of "no." "Is the People's party to part the waves of the Red sea and let the Democrats walk over while the Populists are swallowed up by the waves?" [Great cheering.]

Tom Patterson of Colorado said that principles were greater than men. He favored the endorsement of the Democratic nominees. Patterson was frequently interrupted with cries of "put him down." The chair appealed to the convention to give Patterson a respectful hearing, and he was finally allowed to proceed.

Jerry Simpson took the platform and the Kansas delegate asked if a representative McKinley ticket would be given a hearing. Jerry Simpson said that he would pledge the 91 votes of Kansas for the Vice President if the convention would vote the adoption of the majority report.

When the delegates subsided, after an interval of ten minutes ex-Lieutenant and Governor Gibbs took the platform by unanimous consent. Gibbs moved the adoption of the majority report on rules and the order of business, so far as not conflicting with the minority reports, each to be taken up section by section. Carried. Nominating speeches for President were limited to twenty minutes, and according to five minutes, the same for Vice President.

Senator Butler moved that the National Committee elect its own Chairman and officers. Carried.

"Cyclone" Davis said that he favored the nomination of the President before the Vice President. The California, Indiana and Kansas delegations pledged their votes for a Southern Vice President. A roll call of States was then taken to decide whether a vote should first be taken on President or Vice President. By a vote of 785 to 615 the convention decided to nominate the Vice President first. This was practically a vote against Sewall.

General James B. Weaver, Chairman of the Committee on Platform, then read a long platform denouncing the gold power and demanding that the National money be issued by the Government only and that it be full legal tender for public and private uses. The platform also demands the free and unrestricted coinage of gold and silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. It demands that no bonds be issued except by the act of Congress, and the election of President Vice President and United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

General Coxey read a minority report. Pine of Rhode Island also read a minority report in imitation of the Declaration of Independence. It was referred to the Committee on Platform. As he insisted on reading it, he was removed from the platform by the police. The majority report was adopted. A motion to take a recess was voted down, but was renewed and carried. Recess until 6.

EVENING SESSION.

The convention was called to order at 6:35, Chairman Allen announcing that a message had been received from the Silver Convention, and would now be read by Delegate Pollock of Mississippi of that body.

Pollock was cordially received and proceeded to read the platform adopted by the Silver party. When he reached the conclusion to the effect that Bryan had been nominated for President there was an outburst of applause drowning any further announcement of Sewall's nomination for second place.

The Chairman then declared the nominations for Vice President in order. Bowman of Alabama nominated Congressman Henry Skinner of North Carolina, who was in turn seconded by Henry and Senator Butler of North Carolina. Congressman Howard of Alabama presented the name of ex-Congressman Thos. E. Watson of Georgia, famed as the author of the expression, "Mr. Speaker, where am I at?" Watson was seconded by Grand Master Sovereign of the Knights of Labor of Arkansas, Ashbury Johnson of California, Murphy of Georgia, Stockton of Indiana, Dockster of Kansas, Gunby of Louisiana, Taylor of Michigan, Donnelly of Minnesota, Abbott of Nebraska, Seitz of Ohio, and delegations from Oregon, Washington, Wyoming, Oklahoma and Arizona. Lafe Pence of Colorado named Arthur Sewall in a strong speech. He

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

SILVER PARTY PLATFORM.

Resolutions Adopted at the St. Louis Convention.

The National Silver party in convention assembled hereby adopts the following declaration of principles:

First—The paramount issue at this time in the United States is indisputably the money question. It is between the gold standard, gold bonds and bank currency on the one side, and the bimetallic standard, no bonds and Government currency on the other.

On this issue we declare ourselves to be in favor of a distinctively American financial system. We are unalterably opposed to the single gold standard and demand the immediate restoration to the constitutional standard of gold and silver by the restoration by this Government, independent of any foreign power, of the unrestricted coinage of gold and silver as the standard money at the ratio of 16 to 1 and upon terms of exact equality as they existed prior to 1873; the silver coin to be a full legal tender, equally with gold, for all debts and use, public and private; and we favor such legislation as will prevent for the future the demonetization of any kind of legal tender money by private contract.

We hold that the power to hold and regulate a paper currency is inseparable from the power to coin money, and hence that all currency intended to circulate as money should be issued and its volume controlled by the general Government only, and should be legal tender.

We are unalterably opposed to the issue by the United States of interest-bearing bonds in time of peace, and we denounce as a blunder worse than a crime the present Treasury policy, incurred by a Republican House, of plunging into debt by hundreds of millions in the vain attempt to maintain the gold standard by borrowing gold; and we demand the payment of all coin obligations of the United States, as provided by existing laws, in either gold or silver coin, at the option of the Government and not at the option of the creditor.

Second—That over and above all other questions of policy, we are in favor of restoring to the people of the United States the time-honored money of the constitution—gold and silver; not one but both—the money of Washington and Hamilton, and Jefferson and Monroe, and Jackson and Lincoln, to the end that the American people may receive honest pay for an honest product; that the American debtor may pay his just obligations in an honest standard and not in a standard that has depreciated 100 per cent above all the great staples of our country; and to the end, further, that silver standard countries may be deprived of the unjust advantage they now enjoy in the difference in exchange between gold and silver—an advantage which tariff legislation cannot overcome.

We therefore confidently appeal to the people of the United States to leave in abeyance for the moment all other questions, however important and even momentous they may appear, to sunder it need be all former ties and affiliations and unite in one supreme effort to free themselves and their children from the domination of the money power—a power more destructive than any which has ever been fastened upon the civilized men of any race or in any age. And upon the consummation of our desires and efforts, we invoke the gracious favor of divine Providence.

The Belmont Courier says when the news of the nomination of Bryan reached Belmont, the Stars and Stripes were displayed, and salutes were fired in honor of the nominee. The citizens paraded the streets, carrying the American flag and singing patriotic songs.

POPULISTS AT SEA.

obtained seconds from Harris of Kansas, Bateman of Maine, Fogg of Michigan, Donahoe of Montana, Patterson of Colorado, Stewart of Colorado, Carl Brown of the District of Columbia.

"Calamity" Weller of Iowa nominated Frank Burkitt of Mississippi, seconded by Gore of Mississippi, Reeves of Montana and Wood of Texas. Barann of Tennessee offered the name of A. L. Mimms of Tennessee and was seconded by Miller of Illinois, and Taylor of Kentucky.

Page of Virginia was named by Bateman of Maine and seconded by the South Dakota delegation and Fields of Virginia.

The nominations were closed and the ballot proceeded. When the roll call had reached Texas it was seen that Watson had enough ballots to ensure his nomination whereupon a motion to suspend the rules and declare the nomination unanimous, was passed with a wild yell. The lights went out and tremendous excitement prevailed for several minutes.

When the current was turned on at sixteen minutes to one a motion to adjourn was declared carried and amid great confusion a recess was taken until 9 to-morrow morning. The vote on President will follow.

POPULISTS AT SEA.

Bryan's Declaration Strikes Terror in Their Camp.

Special to the JOURNAL.]

St. LOUIS, 25.—The People's party Convention on the third day of the session got down to solid work, and after a stormy night the session nominated Thomas L. Watson of Georgia for Vice President. It turned down the Committee on Rules by a decisive vote this morning and gave the nomination of Vice President precedence over that of President, so as to force a selection of a Southern Populist in place of Sewall, whose record was strongly attacked by members of the Maine delegation. There was a good deal of enthusiasm displayed, though not in favor of any special candidate. Most of the speeches were in favor of the nomination of Watson and his success was almost assured an hour before he was chosen. The sensation of the night was the withdrawal of Bryan unless Sewall was named with him on the ticket.

Before the convention adjourned the purport of the message from Bryan became known among the leaders.

Governor Stone of Missouri, General Weaver and Patterson of Denver held a conference, but without result. Subsequently Governor Stone said he did not believe Bryan's name would be presented to the convention. He could not, he said, possibly see how Bryan could ever consider the nomination after the action of the convention in nominating Watson.

The leaders of the Populists are all at sea, but among those who have been contending for Sewall's nomination it will force the convention to reconsider its action and endorse the straight Democratic ticket. There appears, however, to be no probability of this being done.

No program has been decided on for to-morrow and the situation is now more chaotic than ever.

BRYAN'S MANLY COURSE.

He Refuses the Populist Nomination if Sewall is Turned Down.

St. LOUIS, July 24.—William J. Bryan will not accept the nomination at the hands of the Populists if they turn down his running mate, Sewall of Maine. This announcement is made on the authority of Bryan himself. Senator Jones of Arkansas, Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, as soon as the convention decided to nominate Vice President wired Bryan as follows:

"The Populists have decided to nominate a Vice President first. If it is not Sewall what shall I do? I favor your declaration in that event."

Bryan certainly did not hesitate long in determining the character of his reply, Senator Jones within sixteen minutes after he sent his message had the following reply handed him:

"LINCOLN, Neb., July 24, 1896.

"Senator Jones, Chairman National Democratic Committee—DEAR SIR:—I agree with you fully. If Sewall is not nominated have my name withdrawn."

"W. J. BRYAN."

Senator Jones made no secret of the receipt of the telegram, which probably means much for the Populists. To a representative of the United Press Jones said that it was manifestly impossible for Bryan to accept the nomination from the Populists upon the ticket which repudiated his associate. There was nothing left for him to do except withdraw, and as soon as the convention had carried the fixed purpose he said the Populists would be enlightened as to Bryan's course. Farther than this Chairman Jones did not care to talk to-night.

Have you piles? Use Sano, prepared by the Viavi Company. It reaches the worst cases. Try it.

SILVER CONVENTION.

Senator Stewart Makes a Rousing Speech.

BRYAN AND SEWALL.

The Convention Nominates Them by Acclamation.

St. LOUIS, July 24.—It was 10:11 o'clock when Chairman St. John called the Silver Convention to order. Rev. Dr. Court led in prayer, after which G. W. Baker of California said that the People's Party Convention had appointed a Committee, and moved that the convention defer action on the platform and postpone nominations until 3:30. The motion prevailed; also a motion that when the convention adjourn it adjourn till 3:30.

By invitation Senator Stewart of Nevada addressed the convention. He said that Wall street was represented by a powerful lobby at the Chicago Convention, but could do nothing with the honest Democratic patriots. He made a plea for harmony among the silver forces and predicted victory. He said he went to Chicago with little hope that a free silver platform would be adopted, but he was agreeably disappointed. There never was a more patriotic band of men on earth than the delegates who controlled the Chicago convention. The Wall street corporation money was no use there. At the mention of Bland's name, the delegations arose, cheered, shouted and flourished umbrellas and flags.

The Senator said that Bryan's convention speech was the greatest oration in history. "I know William J. Bryan," he said, "he believes what he believes. He is as true to his principles as the needle to the pole."

In conclusion Stewart said that every free silver man was an American, and against the English gold syndicate and they must vote as a unit, in spite of the millions raised by the goldbugs to corrupt the voters of the United States.

Under the resolution adopted yesterday the roll of States was called to find out how many old soldiers occupied seats as delegates. The roll showed 109 Union veterans, 18 Confederate veterans and 4 Mexican war veterans.

Mrs. Helen Mitchell recited an original poem, "The Wall of William Whitney."

Judge Scott of Omaha was called to the platform. He said: "Oh God send pestilence and disease and vermin and war and famine among us if you will, but in thy good providence, Oh God, deliver us from another four years of oppression under Grover Cleveland."

He called for three cheers for Bryan, which were given.

General McFay, an ex-Confederate officer, delivered an appeal for the union of silver men, and was given three cheers.

The convention adjourned until 3:30 p.m. when the rules were suspended and Bryan nominated by acclamation. Sewall was also nominated by acclamation for Vice President.

The convention adjourned sine die.

Trenmore Coffin, Chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, announces in the Examiner over his signature, that he will support Bryan for President. R. S. Meacham, a Republican State Committeeman, also declares for Bryan and free coinage. It seems that every man, not only in Nevada, but throughout the Union, who does not believe in "pressing down the crown of thorns upon the brow of labor," is going for Bryan and free silver.

Frank Dickinson was in from his Red Rock ranch yesterday. He says he is for Bryan, and has lots of hay and wheat, with stalks a foot taller than anybody has in the country, and expects when they reach their full growth to cut and sell them to the boys for ham-bone fish poles. He will return to Red Rock this morning.
